The Éamonn Ceannt Ceili Band was founded in Árus Ceannt, 14 Thomas Street, Dublin in 1957. Árus Ceannt was the H.Q. of Éamonn Ceannt, one of the 1916 signatories to the Proclamation and executed in May of that year. He was a fluent Irish speaker and a Piper, hence the name. The band is well known throughout the country, both for Broadcasting from Radio Éireann and playing at Ceilidhthe. Four of the founder members, Vincent Broderick, Ciarán Ó Raghallaigh, Florrie Schooling and Vi Preston are still playing with the band.

COMPOSITION OF MEMBERS FOR THE PRESENT RECORD:

Vincent Broderick,
Concert Flute

Comes from near Loughrea, Co Galway. He is an Oireactas Gold Medallist and all Ireland Fleadh Ceoil winner on a number of occasions. Being a true traditional musician he has contributed a lot to the repertoire of the band. Such reels as the 'Three Jolly Pigeons', 'The Fox on the Prowl', 'The Man in the Moon', and the 'Salmon in the Weir' are just a few of the many reels which were heard on Radio Éireann for the first time when the Éamonn Ceannt Band broadcast them.

Dan Healy,
Concert Flute

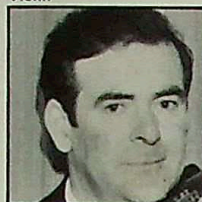

Comes from the heart of traditional music — Cloonamonagh, Ballymote, Co Sligo.

Ciarán Ó Raghallaigh,
Violin

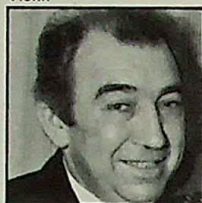

Born in America but his parents who came from Cavan returned to Ireland when he was a small boy. As his parents were Irish to the core they decided to have Ciarán taught the violin. Soon he was winning prizes at the Father Matthew Feis in Dublin. His interest lay in traditional music and it was only natural that with an environment such as existed in his home, traditional music was encouraged and Ciarán proved his worth.

John Mulrooney,
Violin

Hails from Ballygar, Co Galway. Listening as a child to an old traditional fiddle player John sought to learn the fiddle. He has some very fine old reels from his teacher.

Val Ó Riain,
Violin

Born and reared in Dublin City. As a young boy he was sent to the School of Music, Chatam Row, Dublin. Having played Classical Music for some time, his interest turned to traditional music from which he gets the satisfaction of any traditional player.

Maire Garvey,
Violin

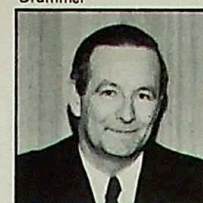

Comes from Tobracken, Bealach A Dóirín, bordering Sligo, Roscommon and Mayo. Coming from such a locality, traditional music was bound to grip her.

Pádraig Forde,
Violin

Comes from Ballinagleary, Co Leitrim, another fountain of traditional music. Pádraig as a young boy learned to play the concert flute but eventually took up the violin. He too has some fine old tunes.

Brian McCarthy,
Drummer

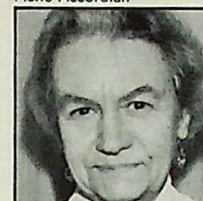

A versatile musician from Arklow, Co Wicklow. When not drumming he turns to the mouth organ or the accordion.

Eileen Boyle,
Piano

Another versatile musician. If a piano is not available she plays the violin. Being of Sligo stock (mother) it is only to be expected that traditional music is in her blood. Her father (Co Cavan) was a good tin whistle player.

Florrie Schooling,
Piano Accordion

Also a versatile musician. As a youngster she was taught the piano for which she holds medals and certificates. Later on in years she learned the violin. The piano accordion is her choice instrument. She is another Dubliner. An uncle, Michael O Riordan was in the 1916 Rising and his name is on the scroll of honour in Árus Ceannt.

Vi Preston,
Piano Accordion

Bred born and reared in the heart of traditional music and dance at Ballymote, Co Sligo, her mother was a very good melodeon player and her father was a good step dancer. Her brother Michael Preston R.I.P. — father of Michael Preston who played with the Tulla Ceili Band was known throughout Connaught as a concert flute player.
